Upon inspecting the track prior to kennelling the Stewards and Track Curator discussed concern with the water lying on the racing surface on the first turn and in the home straight. It was agreed that due to the inclement weather the track would not be able to be brushed in between races as the weight of the tractor would cause more damage and make the surface unsafe for racing. Stewards consulted with participants and were advised that the industry were happy to race on the surface. A public announcement was made by the course broadcaster advising of the matter.
